Short form reel breaking down how this startup raised $2M by building a Chrome extension. Frame: "The $2M Chrome Extension."

● HOOK

"This Chrome extension made $2M and it only has 5 files."

● WHY IT WORKS

The contrast between simplicity (5 files) and outcome ($2M) creates a curiosity gap that makes people want to learn how.

FAQ & Tips

How much does it cost to use?

Each analysis costs a fraction of a cent through your Anthropic API key. You could analyze hundreds of pages for under $1. You only pay Anthropic directly for what you use.

Does it work on every website?

Yes. It reads the text content of any webpage. It works best on articles, tweets, videos with descriptions, product pages, and blog posts. Pages with very little text content will produce simpler results.

Is my data safe?

Your API key is stored locally in Chrome's storage on your device. Page content is sent directly to Anthropic's API for analysis and is not stored anywhere. No data passes through any third party server.

Can I change my API key?

Yes. Click "Change API Key" in the footer of the side panel to enter a new key at any time.

It says 'Invalid API key'?

Make sure you copied the full key from console.anthropic.com. It should start with sk-ant-api03 and be quite long. Also make sure your Anthropic account has billing set up.

The floating button covers something on a page?

The floating button in the bottom right is part of the content script. You can also access Clutch Creator by clicking the extension icon in Chrome's toolbar instead.

Now go analyze something.

Every page is a content idea waiting to happen.
